SPLENDID GRADES MADE FOR CERTIFICATES

Examiners Completed Work
Thursday Morning—Twenty
First Class Certificates.

Last Friday and Saturday the examination for county certificates was held here at Hartford College. The examination was under the direction of Supt. Leach, assisted by Examiners C. B. Shown and L. E. Embry. The attendance was much larger than at previous examinations, there being thirty one ladies and thirty one gentlemen.

The examination was pronounced by all as very difficult, however there were only four failures out of sixty two applicants. The grades were divided as follows: 20 first class certificates; 25 second class certificates and 12 third class certificates.

A remarkable feature of the examination was the grades made by Misses Edith and Effie Duke, who made first class certificates. They are twin sisters and their grades looked only 1-11 of being identical. Miss Edith made an average of 87.6-11 per cent. and Miss Effie an average of 87.7-11 per cent.

A comparison of the highest average made showed that Prof. E. F. Liles had the highest which was 96 per cent. and Prof. H. C. Crowder second highest, with 94.4-22 per cent. In the examination for common school diploma just a week prior to the examination for county teachers' certificates twenty were successful and one failed.

The June examinations will be held at Fordville on the third Friday and Saturday in June, being on the 16th and 17. The following took the examination for teachers' certificates:

Horse Branch Boy Arrested.

Chicago Ill., May 22.—Lola Nichols, eighteen years old, of Horse Branch, Ky., was arrested yesterday at the Dearborn street station. Nichols had been visiting relatives in Webb City, Mo., and was returning home with his uncle, Henry Dowell. At the station he became involved in an argument with Detective Dell and when the latter attempted to arrest Nichols he resisted. A city policeman was called and Nichols was taken to the station. Terhe Dowell told the police that both had transportation good only until midnight and if they were not allowed to go they would lose this. Dell, however insisted on prosecuting the youth, who will be given a hearing to-day.

Surprise Birthday Dinner.

On May the 14th Mr. Horace Taylor was greatly surprised on returning from church at Liberty to find that his wife had planned a surprise dinner on the anniversary of his 39th birthday. Mr. Taylor did not seem to realize that such a nice surprise had been planned for him until a host of his relatives and friends began to stop to take dinner with him.

Every one enjoyed the dinner and the entire day immensely but none enjoyed it more than Mr. Taylor.

There was an abundance of good things to eat and all seemed to be delighted.

After a heartfelt talk by Rev. Mell and a general love-feast session, the crowd was dismissed and every one departed feeling greatly benefited, spiritually as well as socially. Many if not all will have a pleasant remembrance of the day until God calls us to a better home in heaven.

EYE OF THE CAT TELLS TIME OF DAY

Popular Chronometer in Turkey—Odd Ways of Determining the Hour of Day.

A watch or a clock was about as rare in Turkey fifty years ago as an aeroplane is in America now, says the Los Angeles Times. Even to-day in the smaller cities and villages a time piece in the house is a convenience and luxury indulged in by a few of the wealthy class.

Nature is the clock of that land, a clock which never stops or fails to serve its purpose. The crow of the cock is the simplest, says Armenia, the sun most dependable and convenient, and the cat's eye the most difficult and to Occidentals the most humorous of timepieces.

The cock crows regularly morning, forenoon, noon, afternoon and evening, and serves the purpose of the striking clock of a belfry tower. Some times a cock crows at irregular periods. Woe unto him! for superstition demands that his head be chopped off a demand which is complied with without delay for to tolerate an ill-crowling cock is to bring bad luck—so the natives believe.

It needs little experience to be able to tell without it be morning, noon, afternoon or near evening by merely noting the position of the sun. The time is more accurately told by judging the shadows cast by the sun which is the mode most popular with the shepherds in the fields.

Still another method, more accurate is the following. They hold their thumbs touching each other horizontally and extend the forefinger up perpendicularly. Then they divide into six parts nominal hour points, the thumb and forefinger of each and one hand representing the morning and the other the afternoon.

When the thumbs join being 12 o'clock, the tip of one forefinger representing 6 o'clock in the morning and the tip of the other 6 o'clock in the afternoon. By holding the hands in the described position toward the sun the shadows cast by one forefinger upon the other will point to the correct time, as judged by the hours nominally marked in mind. The hour divisions may be divided into additional parts as the quarter hours.

To tell the time by the cat's eye sounds at first humorous but it can be done. The average person perhaps is not aware that the shape of the cat's eye undergoes changes during the day. In the morning the pupil is normally circular, but gradually it narrows until noon, when only a narrow streak is left. As the day progresses it resumes its normal shape becoming oval about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. In Turkey it is common for the old folks to call the cat to their sides in order to ascertain the time.

As an illustration of how accurately time can be measured by the shadow cast by the sun can be cited a trial in the courts of Omaha, Neb., held in the first week of January, 1911, where a man was acquitted of the charge of attempted murder through technicalities established by the shadow of a church steeple cast upon a photograph which contained the two accusing witnesses who had testified seeing the man between 2 and 3 o'clock in the afternoon while returning from church, after the photograph was taken.

But from the angle formed by the shadow and the horizontal boards of the church in the photograph Father Riggs, astronomer at Creighton University calculated the time the photograph must have been taken and testified that the exact moment was during the afternoon at 3:21:29, one hour later than the witnesses had testified they met the prisoner. The testimony given by the astronomer was so concise and clear and the impossibility of the witness having seen the accused man at the scene of the crime at the time it was alleged to have been committed was shown to be so absolute that the accused man was acquitted.

A Question for You.

Each man remembers what a good friend his mother was to him, when the matter is brought up, but a great many of them, when they get away from home, forget.
"How long since you wrote home to mother?" is a question that always should appeal to everyone, and if one lives in Ohio county and the mother somewhere else, or if there are boys who have gone out from old Ohio and left mother here, it is a question which should apply to them. It is a very little thing in a way, yet, in another way, one of the biggest things in life.

How long has it been?
Have you been dutiful in this respect?

Have you been thoughtful enough to outline your duty?

If you have been undutiful, resolve to-day to do better in the future.

If you have been thoughtless and careless, become thoughtful and so careful.

If you have a mother living and you are separated from her, a loving message from you will be worth more to her than diamonds or gold or silver or precious raiment.

Did you ever stop to think how much you owe your mother? Do you realize the depths and tenderness of a mother's love? Do you realize how far she would go for your comfort, how much she would sacrifice for your sake?

Think it over.
Motherhood is the most sacred thing on this earth. Do you value it as such?

If you have a mother, cherish her. One day—when she's gone—you'll remember what she was worth, and every little kindness toward her that you can recall will be a pearl. The best you can do will never repay your mother's love and kindness. Do your best: that will be little enough.

Polliteness, consideration for women generally, is a good sign of manliness. Reverence and tenderness toward one's mother is the supreme test.

If you are not at your best in this specification begin the work of getting better at once.

A letter to mother helps a whole lot. How long since you wrote?

A Father's Vengeance.

Patrolize Your Home Merchants

To patrolize your home merchants and industries is not only patriotic and a duty of good citizenship, but it is to your personal advantage, both financially and sociologically. The truth is that every dollar spent in your home town will find its way back to your purse, but the dollar spent away from home is in all probability gone forever. The profit on each dollar of business transacted at home enriches the community to that extent and increases the value of property.

Yet many persons in our community as well as elsewhere are in reality wasting money, time and energy to get to some larger town or city steadily every year for the simple purpose of spending their money among strangers. The money was earned at home, and those strangers among whom it is spent are not likely to do anything for the upbuilding of our town. Of course our good neighbors are ready to give reasons why they are doing so; but their reasons are curious and evasive creatures like the will of the whips, while we saw with fear and trembling in our childhood days behind grandfather's barn. Without entering into any long arguments, we believe that according to common horse sense, it is the duty to every loyal citizen to support financially and morally your home merchants and to subscribe for your home paper.

DON'T BLAME THE NEWSPAPER

Milwaukee Clergyman Tells
Some Plain Facts to His People.

That the clergyman appreciate the influence of newspapers as keenly as any class of professional men in this country is evident from the frequency with which they allude to them in their sermons. Here is what the Rev. F. Stanley Powles, of Milwaukee, told his congregation on a recent Sunday evening.

"We, as citizens of the metropolis of Wisconsin do not half appreciate what our newspapers are doing for of ten we ought to give them credit for the effectiveness of their work in molding public opinion. Co-operation and not condemnation should be our policy. It exerts much power for good, and if the church of to-day is looking forward to the church of tomorrow to be a factor for good it must acknowledge this in every phase of life.

"Our press does exert a moral influence, and many of its editorials are splendid lay sermons. Its exposing graft and denouncing crime and underhand political schemes, as it now does, is proof of itself that it is decidedly favorable to morality.

"If the public demands flaring headlines of crimes and debauchery, the newspapers will publish them. Don't blame the press for what you yourself take an active part in. The church plays the Sunday newspapers, when its success is made what it is by the patronage of the Christian church.

"The press has its faults. It makes sad mistakes in many things, and at times forgets the real wants of our city. We do not need warnings at all times, and in this particular I feel that our city papers create a wrong impression.

"A clean press means a clean city, and to obtain this we should not denounce but co-operate in raising the standard. We as Christians do not familiarize ourselves with the actual needs, and then see to it that things are improved. We sit back and decry our city press and try our utmost to make our denunciation effective.

"This only widens the breach between church and press and nothing is gained. Our Milwaukee press is affecting the morals of our great city, and in my opinion rightly.

"When our clergy fully realize that co-operation and not denunciation is needed to improve humanity, then shall we appreciate what the press is doing for our city. We have not an editor in our city but who is willing to co-operate with us in making his paper one of power for good if we show ourselves to be in the right attitude for harmony."

pay the Leather Oil company's claim then all I got to say is that you are the darndest fools on earth.

In 1907 my gin and corn mill burned flat to the ground and I had no insurance so this was a flat loss. Then in 1908 the boiler in my saw mill busted and blowed hell out on everything for miles around and some part of blowing hell out on me, the insurance company said that my insurance was for fire and not for a boiler bustin so I didn't get nothing outen that. Then I took to drink and drank up everything I had excepts the debt. Then in 1909 I decided that I would reform and signed the pledge. Then I bought an ox team, a pair of Texas ponies, a breech loading shot gun, a set of fine books a piano and some fine chickens all on the installment plan. And joined the farmers alliance, the Methodist church and got blacked balled by the woodman of the world, the Iltan struck the ox team and one of the ponies died and the other one I hired to a few drummer what drove his to death, the shot gun is busted and I cant read the books I had to have the piano tuned and the chicken have got lice on them. Then I had my picture enlarged and hired hands to build a fish pond, the picture dont look like me and the hands used me for digging the pond. In 1910 my sister married a nigger and my wife run away and left me with a brace of nine months old twins to take care of. If turkey was selling for two cents each I could not look a Jay bird in the face. Now if you think I ought to pay this bill then jump in, but let me give you a gentle hint, getting money out of me is like stuffin butter down a wild cats throat with a hot all. So now let the storm begin and I pray that there may be a storm of brimstone and fire and that the storm shall spend most of its fury around 21501 Dearborn street Chicago Ill where you claim to get your male.

A Boy and His Goat.

Down in Benton county, Ark., last year, a fifteen year-old boy raised fifty bushels of corn on an acre of dry, flinty hillside. He plowed the ground with a small plow he had manufactured himself out of discarded scrap iron at a country blacksmith shop. Incidentally the motive power of the plow was a billy goat.

The boy did not belong to any corn club and did not use any scientific methods of cultivating his lands, but he grew more corn on his acre of rough ground than many of the nearby farmers who used up-to-date implements and who prided themselves on their corn growing ability. The boy explained his crop to his astonished neighbors at harvest time by saying that he had continually worked of Agriculture heard of his accomplishment and this year has supplied him with the best seed corn to be obtained. The boy is going after a record of 100 bushels to the acre and he probably will make it if the goat holds out. The Commissioner of Agriculture offered to furnish him with a horse or a mule, but the offer was declined with thanks and the plow is being operated by the goat power as heretofore. If this year's crop is as big as last year's the boy is to be taken to the Arkansas State Fair to display his queer farming outfit along with examples of his crop.

The achievement of this mountain boy and his goat should be worth a good deal to the farmers of Arkansas in the way of an object lesson. It is in no way an example of progressive agriculture, but it is a testimonial to the importance of sticking to the job it shows that energy and perseverance can work wonders even in the absence of ordinary facilities and modern means of operation.—Courier Journal.

Beat two eggs until very light. Then add one cup of sour milk, in which one-half teaspoonful of soda has been dissolved. When well mixed, add one tablespoonful of sugar, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one and one-half cupfuls of sifted flour. Have the greased pan hot and well greased. Fill half full and bake twenty minutes.

Cut the liver in one-half inch slices. Cover with boiling water. Let it stand for five or six minutes. Drain and wipe dry. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Broil in a well greased broiler five or six minutes. Put on a hot platter. Spread with bits of butter. Serve very hot.

Use the whites of eleven eggs, one and one-half tumblers of sifted granulated sugar, one tumbler of sifted flour one teaspoonful of vanilla, one teaspoonful of cream of tartar. Stir the flour four times. Then add the cream of tartar and stir again, but measure it before putting in the cream of tartar. Sift the sugar and measure it. Beat the eggs to a stiff froth on a large platter. On the same platter add the sugar lightly, then the flour very gently then the vanilla. Do not stop beating until you put it in the pan to bake. Bake forty minutes in a moderate oven; try with a straw and if too soft, let remain a few minutes longer. Do not open the oven until the cake has been in fifteen minutes. Turn the pan upside down to cool. When cool take out by loosening around the sides with a knife.

Whites of two eggs, two tea cups of granulated sugar, boil the sugar until clear, with just enough water to moisten it. Having beaten the eggs to a stiff froth, pour boiling syrup slowly over them. Dissolve one-half-teaspoonful of citric acid in a small tablespoonful of water. Put in enough to make a pleasant tart. Add a little essence of lemon and enough cochineal to make the desired pink coloring.

All of the difficulties that one meets with wet dyes for making stencil patterns is overcome by the use of stick-form stencils which any woman can use in making her own stencil patterns. It can be used on any fabric and it is claimed the colors will wash. The discovery was made a long time ago that colored crayons such as children used at school could be used in stencil work, and they can be used for making appendix little dollies on which to place jardineres. These however, can not be washed, since the spermaceti washes off from the muslin.

Wash and scrub a bunch of salsify or oyster plant, and boil until tender. Drain and skin with a vegetable knife. Add a little salt codfish picked very fine that has previously been boiled until tender. Press through a colander and add three tablespoonfuls of flour with one tablespoonful of melted butter; add to the milk. Put back over fire and stir until soup is of a thick creamy consistency. Add salt and pepper to taste. Serve with warm, crisp crackers.

Scrape off the outer skin of the oyster plant under water to prevent the vegetable from becoming discolored; cut into thin slices and boil until tender. Butter a deep baking dish and fill with alternate layers of oysters plant and well-seasoned, buttered cracker crumbs. Cover the top well with cracker crumbs dot with butter;

Nowadays when Johnny is bad at school the teacher takes down her book and give him a black mark; the next day he is worse than ever. Fifty years ago when Johnny was bad in school the teacher took down a dog wood sprout, made two dozen black marks around his bare legs, and Johnny never repeated the offense. Fifty years ago Johnny got up at daylight started a fire, fed the horses, milked the cows, chopped the wood, brought enough to last all day, ate a hearty breakfast and walked five miles to school. Today Johnny does not get up at all unless forced to, eats little or no breakfast, goes out behind the barn to smoke a cigarette, and if a school house is more than three blocks away grumbles about the long distance he had to walk. The Johnny of fifty years ago is now a hale man; Fifty years from now and the Johnny to-day will be dead and buried.

FRIDAY, MAY 26.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

We are authorized to announce Hon C. P. Keown a candidate for Representative from Ohio county in the next General Assembly of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Republican party.

The reciprocity agreement seems to have struck a snag in the Senate.

If it is true that the opponents of Judge O'Rear held a meeting in Louisville, last week, to devise plans for a combination with which to defeat him it shows that they regard the necessity for his defeat above any personal aspirations of the contending candidates and this should make Judge O'Rear still stronger with the people.

We have never had any quarrel with the insurgents especially except as to their surrender on the tariff question and now they seem to have demonstrated by their opposition to the reciprocity treaty that they are not so much in favor of a low tariff after all. Our chief objection to the insurgents had been that they refused to abide by the majority of their fellow Republicans, or by any caucus agreement whatever, and insist on bossing the majority.

Ex-Senator Blackburn in his speech at Owensboro gave a good deal of attention to the unfortunate Goebel murder. Blackburn should be the one man in all Kentucky who would be anxious to forget this unfortunate period in our history. It was he who declared on the stump that if there was any "counting out" done it would not be the Republicans, as the election was in the hands of the Democrats. It was he who insisted upon Goebels making the contest, after he had decided not to do so, and it was commonly known that Blackburn had a selfish purpose in doing so because he feared Senator Goebel might become a candidate against him for the United States Senate. We are very greatly mistaken if the dragging out of this old issue by Senator Blackburn can do his cause any good. We believe the people of Kentucky desire to look into the future, instead of the past, and to inaugurate plans which will place our state where it belongs, at the forefront in material progress and education. We are all Kentuckians, brothers of a common heritage whether it be good or bad, and we cannot afford to be feudists.

BLACKBURN SPOUTS.

The much-heralded speech by ex-senator Joe Blackburn was delivered at Owensboro, last Saturday afternoon. Nothing new was developed. It was the same old Joe, and the same old speech—from the "Big Sandy to Mills Point." It abounded in misrepresentation and coarse abuse. Joe's ancient hate of the Republican party does not seem to have been softened any by the fact that he fattened several years off of a $14,000 office, handed to him by a Republican president, who was elected by the Republican party. He revived the Goebel murder and waived the bloody shirt to his hearts content. He condemned the entire Republican party for the murder of Goebel and was especially vindictive against that part of the party which inhabits the Eleventh Congressional District. His special fear of a continuance of Republicans in power is that a fair redistricting of the state may be had and seemingly desires that all Republican counties in the state should by some means be placed in the Eleventh district. Those who expected him to announce for some office were disappointed, and those who expected him to announce for some candidate for governor were also disappointed. He was content to fire off the same old gun, loaded in the same old way. It is a flint lock musket of the oldest type, and the sputtering from the powder in the priming cup seems to have created more fear than the actual discharge of the load. Whether any good has been done to the Democratic party by Mr. Blackburn, or any harm to the Republican party, we feel sure that he feels relieved of the burden which he has been carrying around ever since the old days when he went up and down the state with the same old thunderbus at a time when modern fire arms were unheard of and when people had less real live questions to consider and therefore listened to old Joe with some respect and patience. We trust that that part of his speech which was so abusive to Republicans in general, at least, will be sent by some kind friend to ex-president Roosevelt in order that he may spend some of his leisure time pondering over the insult which he gave to Kentucky Republicans when he sent this old broken down Democratic politician, as governor to the Panama Canal Zone some years ago.

WHICH SIDE?

Just now the old night rider trouble, which took place several years ago during the struggle between the tobacco growers and tobacco trust, are being revived and rehearsed by some people with a view of possible political benefits to be gleaned from the old straw.

We have always condemned night riding and lawlessness of all forms and while we know that much of the so-called night riding which took place at that period had nothing what over to do with the struggles of the tobacco growers, and while we know also that many published outrages never happened, we are sure that considering the gigantic struggle and the feeling of resentment and injury which was felt by more than one hundred thousand tobacco growers the loss of property and loss of life was small indeed, when compared with any other like struggle which has ever taken place in the history of the world. Let us examine the other side of the matter for a moment. It is admitted by all fair minded people that the tobacco trust was a willful and flagrant violator of the law; that it had forced the price of tobacco down to a starvation point for the growers by the elimination of all competitive buyers; that this had gone on for several years, until it had become unbearable; that thousands upon thousands of women and little children had gone in rags, deprived of school books and education, of medicine and a physician when sick, and that the death of hundreds of people because of this subject poverty can be charged direct to this soulless corporation. If all the crimes committed by the night rider chargeable to the tobacco growers could be placed together, as compared with those chargeable to the tobacco trust, they would appear as a mole hill at the foot of Pikes Peak. When therefore a public speaker, asking for the highest office within the gift of the people of Kentucky, uses more than two thousand words in condemning the night riders and only four lines in which he agrees that "the trust was doing wrong and ought to have been punished" with no word of vehement censure for the trust outrages, it is a very easy matter for the average farmer to conclude upon which side of the question the sympathies of the speaker lie. He who could not must be classed as a fool and the Kentucky farmers of 1911 are not fools.

MR. FRANKS SPEAKS.

Hon. E. T. Franks, of Owensboro, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, spoke at Barbourville, last Monday in the interest of his candidacy. Mr. Franks is an able stump speaker and a Republican of the old school, and there is much about him which we admire as a fighting Republican. However, we feel that he made a serious mistake in making a personal attack upon Judge O'Rear. In Judge O'Rear's speech at Hopkinsville, he did not refer personally to either of his opponents and said nothing which could be construed as an attack upon them. If Mr. Franks has been quoted correctly in the daily press he not only attacked Judge O'Rear in a way that would do justice to a ward politician, but he misrepresented him to an extent that is almost criminal. For instance in Judge O'Rear's speech at Hopkinsville, he laid down the proposition that the farmers had a right to organize and to pool their crops for better prices and stated that if anyone, whether a Republican or Democrat took a different position he was ready and willing to meet them on the question at any time or place. In Mr. Franks' speech at Barbourville he charges that Judge O'Rear endorsed night riders, and that he stated that he was willing to meet anyone upon that issue. Mr. Franks must have known that he was misrepresenting Judge O'Rear. In the meeting at Frankfort, which was composed of high class farmers from every section of the state, and representatives of the tobacco trust, governor Willson made a speech directed to them as though the farmers present had been violators of the law, just such a speech as might have been delivered to the convicts of the penitentiary. It was an insult to every farmer present, not because of criticism of lawlessness, but because such criticism should be directed to those present and in the manner in which it was delivered, for he said, "I WARN YOU that I intend to put down this lawlessness in Kentucky."

If it takes every able bodied man to do it." Judge O'Rear said nothing in his speech upon that occasion which we do not endorse and which is not endorsed by every man in Kentucky, who means to be fair to the farmers, and if he had not made that speech there would in our opinion have been no sale of the tobacco crop that year. At the close of governor Willson's speech the trust representatives were in high glee believing that every department of the state government was to be used not only to put down night riders and prevent lawlessness, but in a way to hinder and break up the organization and tobacco pool among the farmers and thus furnish them an opportunity to continue the purchase of tobacco at their own price, which was a ruinous one to the growers as every citizen of the state knows.

No one criticized Mr. Franks for his loud declamations in favor of law and order but why did he select a presidential year, 1908, when that question could not possibly have been an issue, to go over the western part of Kentucky and deliver a speech on law and order, STANDING SO STRAIGHT THAT HE ACTUALLY LEANED BACKWARD, and which was followed by the largest Democratic majority ever given in that part of Kentucky, even the old Republican county of Christian, the next year elected an entire set of democratic county officers. In that speech which was printed in the Owensboro inquirer, Mr. Franks is quoted in substance as follows: "The American Society of Equity has forced hundreds of men to become members of that organization." This was a slander pure and simple, for that organization never forced anyone to become a member thereof and Mr. Franks cannot point to anyone who was ever so treated by the organization. The trouble is that governor Willson, Mr. Franks and all the other so-called law and order defenders, when they go on the stump manage not only to denounce lawlessness but at some point they make it very clear to the farmers or tobacco growers that they are all classed as lawless, and it is our candid opinion that these men secretly believe that any farmers organization is lawless and ought to be broken up no matter how clear its membership may be of night riders.

Advertising in Eve's Days.

Ben S. Jacobs, a director of the Pilgrim Public Association of Boston, addressed the students at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology on "Psychological Points in Advertising." He told his hearers that advertising really started in the garden of Eden. One of two definite states of mind is necessary, Mr. Jacobs said, to sell goods. One is necessity and the other is desire. Advertising may exploit necessity or create the desire, and the copy and chosen medium should be adapted to one or the other, as the case may be and any medium which reaches any considerable number of people burdened with necessity or likely to respond to the desire in mind has a distinct value as a carrier of the advertiser's message.

First among these mediums, he pointed out, came the printed word and the printed picture, and it is this fact that makes the great newspapers and magazines of today a practical possibility and an economic factor in the supply and demand of the world's goods and their distribution.

(Fourth District Lawler.)
Guy Payne, of Harwood, was in town one day last week and told us an experience with a crow's nest. He says he killed a crow in her nest and in a few days was passing the same way and found a squirrel in the nest. He killed the squirrel and went on. In the course of a few days he happened along the same way and Lo and Behold! There was a coon occupying the same nest. He merely proceeded to kill it. We haven't seen him since last week, but when we do he will probably report a bear or something smaller.

(Leitchfield Gazette.)
A bill collector in Louisville was stabled by a creditor, who became enraged at the idea of a man wanting money. Apparently collecting should be classed among the "hazardous occupations."

(Owensboro Inquirer.)
Mrs. Jay Johnson of the Ensor neighborhood is the possessor of a remarkable cat. One day recently while out in the backyard, she noticed the family cat carrying a rabbit in her mouth to her bed. Mrs. Johnson thought it strange but being very busy at the time paid no more attention to it. The cat recently became the mother of four kittens and evidently being of Theodore Roosevelt's turn of mind decided that the family wasn't large enough. Next morning when Mrs. Johnson went to where the kittens were kept she found four little rabbits lying beside the kittens. Where the cat found the rabbits is not known.

Judge O'Rear has lifted the question of redistricting clear above parties and makes it a question, not of partisan advantage but of representative government, by showing that some districts have six times as much voting strength as others.

A FARMER WHO MADE A MISTAKE
(Rockport Ind., Journal.)
It would seem to be a pretty sure proposition that the man who leaves a farm to work for wages of $1.50 a day in the city is making a serious mistake. Yet there are men in the country who are doing that identical thing under the impression that they are bettering their financial condition. The Owensboro Inquirer has found a man of that kind. He was doing well at farming in McLean county, but thought he could do better in Owensboro. He moved some six or seven years ago. The experience has not been satisfactory and he talks bitterly about it. The Inquirer quotes him as saying:

"Before I came to the city I thought I could support my family and save money on wages of a dollar and a half a day. I brought enough provisions from the farm to run us a year, and I saved some of my $9 a week. The next year I had to buy everything an my little bank deposit was reduced. The third year it all disappeared and I have had an awful struggle to live since. I was a fool and there are other fools in town just like me. There are other fools out in the country who will come to the city to work for the wages of a common laborer. Some of the fools who came in times past have returned to the farm, but they did so at the end of the first or second year. The fool who stays longer than that gets too poor to get back to the farm. I know because I've tried it."

There is food for reflection in the man's statement of his situation. Conditions in cities and in the rural districts are so radically different that the country man does not realize what he is "going up against" when he leaves the farm to take up his residence in the city. It is inevitable that he shall find in the course of a comparatively short period that

TO CURE SORE BUNIONS

Treatment Marvelously Quick for This and All Foot Troubles.

"Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Caloide compound in a basin of hot water; soak the feet in this for full fifteen minutes, gently massaging the sore parts. (Less time will not give desired results.) Repeat this each night until cure is permanent." All pain and inflammation is drawn out instantly and the bunion soon is reduced to normal size. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off and will stay off. Sore, tender feet and smelly, sweaty feet need but a few treatments. A twenty-five cent package of Caloide is usually sufficient to put the worst feet in fine condition. Caloide is no longer confined to only the doctors' use. Any druggist has it in stock or will quickly get it from his wholesale house. This will prove a welcome item to persons who have been vainly trying to cure their foot troubles with ineffective tablets and foot powders.

him $9 a week is painfully inadequate to meet the needs of the family. It is likewise inevitable that should he postpone going back to the farm too long he will find himself in the condition of the Owensboro man—too poor to go. Under such circumstances the future cannot be attractive, for the time must come when he will be out of the earning game with nothing laid up for a rainy day. The man is doing well on the farm before he moves to the city to work at laborer's wages. The money comes slowly on the farm, but it comes surely to every farmer who exercises ordinary industry, and diligence—and it doesn't go as swiftly and to as little effect as it does in the city where one must needs pay for about everything he gets except air and sunshine.

For soreness of the muscles whether induced by violent exercise or injury, Chamberlain's Liniment is excellent. This Liniment is also highly esteemed for the relief it affords in cases of rheumatism. Sold by all druggists.

Four-Fifths of Your Store Patrons Were Won by Advertising—And Four-Fifths of These Would Be Lost if You Stopped Advertising!

Newspaper advertising is a part of all worth-while store-service—a part of it which patrons particularly value. For it keeps them in touch with your store-events, your sales, the arrival of new stocks, the showing of novelties, the buying opportunities which your store must create for its friends.

The advertising becomes the link between the store and its clientele. They expect the store's advertising to SERVE THEM—"not now and then," not partially; but ALWAYS, and fully! To curtail the advertising—in volume or frequency—would make the same impression on them as though you moved into smaller quarters and cut down your force of clerks and workers. To INCREASE your advertising to make it more complete as "store news," as a "market letter," as a bulletin of bargains—will have the effect of enlisting a lot of new store-friends every day, and of winning anew all of the old ones!

CANNOT READ OWN NAME AND IS RICH

Began Without a Cent and Has Amassed Millions of Dollars.

Portland, Ore., May 23—Unable to read or write English, even to the extent of signing his own name and yet so rich he cannot state the extent of his acres, the number of his sheep or cattle or the amount of his wealth Joe Vey, a native of Portugal, has shown in a striking way how the opportunities of the Pacific Northwest may be turned to account.

Joe Vey is little more than 60 years old. He landed in Umatilla County, Oregon in 1887 with scarcely enough money in his pocket to pay for a square meal. He went to work as a range rider and by thrift and industry he has amassed a fortune calculated at a half million dollars or more.

"I just figured it out that way," was his answer to the question as to how he came to do it. While the other cowboys with whom he rode the range were planning they could have the most hilarious time as soon as they collected their wages, Vey was figuring out how to avoid working for wages all his life. Although he has accomplished his purpose and need do no further "figuring," Vey has found it impossible to retire and spend an inactive old age. He is working just as hard today as when he was struggling to save money enough to buy his first bunch of sheep, for it was with sheep that he made the greater part of his fortune.

"How many have you all told?" he was asked. For answer he held up both hands and shook his head. Then, after a moment's pause, he said: "Well, in Umatilla and Morrow counties I have 25 or 26 sections. I purchased about 13,000 acres of logged-off land in Union County recently and about five years ago I bought 16,000 or 17,000 acres in that district. Vey is not a miser but a worker. He thought to retire a few years ago and visited his old home in Portugal. He found he could not be satisfied to be idle and is in the harness again and will be as long as he lives.
